

ReWild Perth for small landholders.

Improve your property's biodiversity and ecosystem resilience with a new tool from Perth NRM that helps you create beautiful outdoor spaces that support local wildlife.

Over the last 200 years, we have removed more than 70% of the natural spaces that supported our unique wildlife, resulting in terrible species and biodiversity loss.

You chose your home because you love nature, which gives you a huge advantage in ReWild Perth's mission to 'bring nature home'.

Your property can become an important environmental resource, and we'll provide you with the best information for your place.

Artificial habitats make it easier for wildlife to thrive.

YOUR
NATURE'S WAY

Bring Nature Home!

ReWild Perth literally works from the ground up - we use your property's location to identify the dominant soil type and then provide you with a tailored list of plants that belong in your home.

We also have a huge range of resources on our native animals, from birds to the little critters that make up the whole ecosystem. By matching soil to plant to insects, birds and animals, you can create a natural web of life.

How can ReWild Perth help you?

PERTH

Plant selection

The ReWild Perth resource library has more than 200 plant species mapped to our region's dominant soil types, from the sandy coastal plains to the shallow, yellow-brownish earths of the Darling scarp.

From the understory ground covers and shrubs to the much needed high canopies of our Tuarts, Marris and Wandoo, ReWild Perth helps you design consistent ecological systems that support the indigenous wildlife.

As a small-landholder, you have a significant advantage in being able to support your existing large trees or to replant species that take a long time to mature.

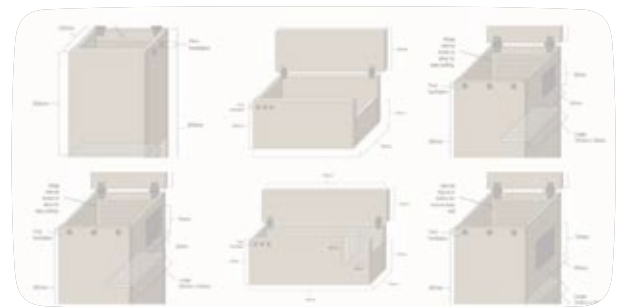

The loss of large tree hollows is a significant threat to many local species, which use them for nesting, breeding or temporary shelter.

Design for Life

The main purpose of ReWild Perth is to use our outdoor spaces to support our natural wildlife, which need exactly the same things as us: food, water and shelter.

We have included lots of resources about the animals you might want to support, the kinds of shelters they need and their natural food sources.
